

CRITICAL RACE AND ETHNIC STUDIES PRESENTS

Work In Progress

Humanities 1 Room 202

December 7 (Thursday), 2017 3-5pm,
Snacks 5pm-6pm

MANAGING RISK: BEYOND
INSTITUTIONALIZED RESEARCH ETHICS

Sheeva Sabati

Sheeva Sabati is a Ph.D. candidate in the Education Department, with designated emphases in Feminist Studies and Critical Race and Ethnic Studies. Her research examines historical and ongoing racial-colonial entanglements of higher education and considers the ethical limits of institutional responses to these contexts.

UNWAGED WAR: BLACK STUDIES AS CASUALIZATION FROM BELOW

Nick Mitchell

Nick Mitchell is Assistant Professor in the Department of Feminist Studies and the Program in Critical Race and Ethnic Studies at UC Santa Cruz. Investigating the social arrangements of knowledge and the work of knowledge in shaping social worlds, Mitchell has recently published essays in Critical Ethnic Studies, Feminist Formations, Signs, and The Abolitionist. Mitchell is currently working on two book projects that elaborates on the claim that a necessary task for the emerging field of critical university studies is not to theorize the university but rather to learn to ask how the university makes its presence felt in the common sense of what we call theory.